Reds Accuse Yanks, Britons of Spying

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today accused five American and five British diplomats of spying and ordered those still in Moscow to leave the country. Four of the Americans named are known to have left Moscow.

A Foreign Ministry note handed to the U.S. and British embassies charged the diplomats were involved in the espionage activities of British businessman Greville Wynne, and Oleg Penkovsky, a Soviet scientific official. Penkovsky was sentenced Saturday to death and Wynne to eight years in prison.

Sheriff Checks Disappearance Of 48 Cattle

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department is investigating the disappearance of 48 head of cattle owned by Charles Wheeler and Bob Larkin of Madison County.

The cattle were being pastured in a 125-acre wooded hillside in Perry Twp. They were last seen by the owners on Thursday.

The missing cattle were first reported to Madison County authorities. They relayed the information to the local sheriff's department yesterday at 6:35 p.m. Deputy Gene Kerns, who made the preliminary investigation late yesterday evening, reported he found no evidence indicating what has happened to the cattle.

Of 52 head originally placed in the field, only four remained. They included one Hereford, 24 Angus and 23 Holstein cattle weighing between 500 and 700 pounds.

Haiti Exile Chiefs Expect Dictator's Fall

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) —Haiti's two leading exiles have formed a provisional government in Puerto Rico, predicting President Francois Duvalier's dictatorship will fall "within a few weeks" and they will take over.

Louis Dejoie, 68, and Daniel Fignole, 48, both defeated by Duvalier in the 1957 presidential elections, told newsmen Sunday they hope to win quick recognition of their government in exile from the United States and other countries.

There was no immediate reaction from the State Department. "We will do everything in our power to have him (Duvalier) removed, including the use of force if need be," Dejoie and Fignole said.

Duvalier appeared in public Sunday for the first time in 12 days. Protected by an army of security guards he dedicated a new tax department building in Port au Prince.

Haitian underground leader Clemente Bardot has vowed to kill Duvalier before the week is out. A revolt has been threatened for Wednesday, the day the Negro president's constitutional term of office expires. Duvalier was elected to a six-year term in 1957 although Dejoie and Fignole both claimed fraud. In 1961, after a rigged election, Duvalier proclaimed himself re-elected until 1967.

3700 Ohio Doctors Expected at Parley

CLEVELAND (AP) — Expansion of present medical education facilities and the eventual creation of a new state medical school were two topics under study today at the annual meeting of the Ohio State Medical Association.

About 3,700 Ohio doctors are expected to hear some of the nation's top specialists present papers on such subjects as cancer research, treatment of bleeding ulcers, measles vaccines and child psychiatry during the week-long meetings.

Forced Work For Reliefers Is Up for Vote

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A bill to require able-bodied poor relief recipients to work for their aid checks comes up for an Ohio House vote Tuesday. The measure already has Senate approval.

Many Ohio counties now require relief recipients to work for their money, but the new law would make such work mandatory.

The relief bill will come before the House while the Senate Finance Committee presses to get the House-approved $1.3 million general appropriations bill in shape for Senate passage the first week in June.

Two other appropriations bills are headed through the House today as lawmakers begin their 19th work week.

One is to meet a deficiency of $111 million for poor relief and other welfare purposes for the two-year fiscal budget period ending June 30. Another $2.5-million deficiency appropriation will cover inadequate appropriations in the 161 sessions to meet the state's contribution to the school foundation program.

Both deficiency appropriation bills, if passed, will go to the Senate. The opening legislative sessions tonight will have little to offer in the way of news.

Up for Senate floor votes tonight are measures:

Authorizing sewer districts to levy taxes outside the 10 mill limit.

Extending from 5 to 20 years the life of voted tax levies for sewer improvements.

The House will vote on a proposal to increase pensions of the widows of township firemen.

Coming up Tuesday is a House vote on a bill to establish training centers for the mentally retarded.

The Senate will vote Tuesday on a House-approved bill to permit county commissioners to lease a closed county home for use as a rest home.

GI Pay Hike Seen Hitting House Snag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, which last week voted pay raises of more than $1 billion a year for military personnel, may balk this week at helping foot the bill.

A bill to raise the national debt ceiling has top billing on this week's congressional docket. Without its enactment, administration leaders claim, the Treasury may have difficulty meeting its obligations. Among the obligations are government payrolls.

The debt limit measure comes before the House Wednesday, having been postponed a full week because of leadership fears that there weren't enough votes to pass it last week.

Only 10 representatives voted against the military pay raise bill when it was passed and sent to the Senate, where it is pending. Efforts to force a roll call failed, many members obviously not wanting to go on record one week for increased spending and then voting a week later against increasing the debt limit.

The debt bill would boost the ceiling to $307 billion at once, then to $309 billion from July 1 to August 31, at which time another hike may be needed. The present legal top is $305 billion.

Hooded Rapist Sought in Marion

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Police Chief Justin Cornely said today a search is under way for a rapist who attacked a young expectant mother in her trailer park home here early Saturday while her husband was at work.

The intruder wore a black hood and carried a pistol and a searchlight. He is believed to be the same man, also wearing a hood, who attempted to criminally assault another Marion woman last month.

His screams frightened him away. His latest victim, Cornely said, was pistol-whipped when she attempted to escape. She has other young children.

Astronaut Caught in Final Checkout For Tuesday's 22-Orbit Space Trip

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper quietly entered a final pre-orbital day today, already caught up in the complex checkout of man and machine leading to his 22-orbit vault into space.

"I'm ready," he said "All we have to do now is load, lox and launch."

Everything appeared to be "go" for the scheduled blastoff Tuesday morning that is to put Cooper into orbit longer than any American—more than 34 hours if all works right.

A vast recovery network of ships and planes was spread out around the globe — the greatest such effort in history—ready to snatch up Cooper if it becomes necessary to stop the flight before 22 orbits are completed. If it goes the 600,000 mile route, Cooper will land in the Pacific Ocean Wednesday near Midway Island.

A final medical checkout late Sunday was "go," as everyone expected. "Gordo" Cooper took it in stride, laughing and joshing with the doctors.

Cooper has been calm, reserved, completely controlled throughout the days leading up to his historic flight.

Everything was going so well that high grade kerosene fuel was pumped into the big Atlas rocket today, a day ahead of time. It will power Cooper's Faith 7 emergency capsule aloft. The early loading provides more time and leeway to check out other elements.

Hydrogen peroxide — which the astronaut uses to maneuver the capsule in space — also will be pumped into its reservoir and piping system and carefully observed for 12 hours in a final test for leaks.

But the lox Cooper spoke of — the highly volatile liquid oxygen that combines with the kerosene to give the atlas its kick won't go in until 35 minutes before liftoff. That is the last component to be loaded.

Cooper's long loops around the earth may be the last Mercury flight. Next step is the Gemini two-man spacecraft and then the Apollo program aimed for the moon.

Cooper's Mom Is All Excited

TECUMSEH, Okla. (AP)—Hattie Cooper is as excited as a mother whose only son is getting ready for his first date.

Her only son, L. Gordon Cooper, 36, is getting ready for a special date with history, in a 22-orbit, 34-hour trip around the world.

Mrs. Cooper, a pert, gray-haired grandmother, is visiting her mother in this quiet central Oklahoma town.

"I came down here to take care of mama," she said.

Her mother, Orena Herd, interrupted. "But I'll bet I wind up taking care of her."

Mrs. Cooper is anxious for her son to start his flight. "Naturally, I'm nervous," she admitted, "we all are. I think we all have a basic fear of the unknown."

Her gray eyes sparkle as she talks about her son, a Marine Major.

Several photographs of Gordon sit atop the mantel and a bookcase in the living room of Mrs. Herd's modest frame home.

"I never believed in telling Gordon what he could or couldn't do," she said. "And we all know he'll be in good hands."

"Whatever happens to us," she said, "is all a part of the pattern of our lives. I believe God has a pattern for each of us."

How will she while away the long hours Gordon will be in orbit?

"Oh, I'll just walk the floor, and chew my nails, and drink lots of coffee," she said, her face breaking into a broad grin.

Interstate 71 'Expeditor' Opens Office

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus headquarters was opened today to expedite completion of Interstate route 71 between Cincinnati and Cleveland.

Gov. James A. Rhodes and his "freeway expeditor," James W. Shocknessy, met with state and federal highway engineers and contracting firms.

For Shocknessy, Columbus attorney and Ohio Turnpike Commission chairman, it is a return to his former Columbus office, now occupied by the highway department.

Shocknessy, prominent in Ohio Democratic politics, was selected by Rhodes to push completion of about 76 miles of freeway from south of Columbus to the Cincinnati Circle Freeway, and 20 miles of freeway between Medina and the Cleveland Innerbelt. The freeway between Medina and Columbus has been completed.

Shocknessy said an engineering firm would submit its study of a freeway intersection with the east-west Ohio Turnpike north of Medina by June 1.

Special attention will be given next week to help for families displaced by the freeway into Cleveland, he said.

Highway Director P. E. Mashester said 18 separate projects are under way by contractors on Interstate 71. Schedules are being met, Mashester said. Shocknessy has said Cincinnati and Cleveland will be connected by the multi-lane freeway by late 1965.

BLOOD PRESSURE HIGH . . . MORE THAN 100 MILES — Space suited astronaut Gordon Cooper cocks his arm to try the blood pressure device provided for him to take his own blood pressure in space. It's a pre-launch test at Cape Canaveral.

Orbit - by - Orbit Flight Program

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If all goes well, here is the orbit-by-orbit flight program to be followed by Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. on his manned space flight, a 22-orbit mission lasting 34 hours and 19 minutes:

First Orbit:

The Atlas injects Cooper's Faith 7 spacecraft into orbit over Bermuda five minutes after launching. Each orbital circuit, ranging from 100 to 170 miles above the earth, takes an hour and 35 minutes. Fourteen minutes after liftoff, a camera mounted above the instrument panel relays the first pictures of an American astronaut in orbit to a tracking station on Grand Canary Island. Cooper devotes most of first orbit to checking spacecraft systems and his physical condition. Blood pressure and oral temperature are taken early to provide basic data for comparison with readings later in flight. A major goal of the flight is to find out how well man can perform tasks during an extended period of weightlessness. Faith 7 crosses southern United States.

Second Orbit:

Television relays pictures to Cape Canaveral and again to Grand Canary Island. Several such transmissions are planned on passes over these stations and over the tracking ship Coastal Sentry south of Japan. Some of the pictures received at Cape Canaveral are to be converted from slow to normal speed and relayed as swiftly as possible to commercial television channels for home viewing. Cooper's wife, Trudy, and two teen-age daughters, following the flight progress at their Houston, Tex., home, thus could be the first astronaut family to see a pilot in action in space. Most of orbit No. 2 is spent in drifting flight, in which all power and controls are shut down and the capsule moves freely on its roll, pitch and yaw axes, revolving once every 30 minutes. Cooper exercises over Australia

By pulling on a stretchable cord attached to the spacecraft floor between his feet.

Third Orbit:

Over the South Atlantic, Cooper pushes a switch which kicks loose a 10-pound ball from the base of the spacecraft. The sphere, equipped with two lights flashing every second, settles into an orbit slightly different from Faith 7. During the night phases of the 3rd, 4th and 5th orbits, Cooper is to watch the light, recording his observations on a tape recorder. He is to estimate distance and comment on its appearance against a star or earth background. The purpose is to determine his capability to see a flashing beacon of known intensity and to help set guidelines for future space rendezvous missions in Project Gemini.

Fourth Orbit:

As the spacecraft crosses the South Atlantic, the pilot records radiation measurements from a detector attached inside his hatch cover. This is the first of 10 such readings he is to make throughout the flight to chart radiation at his orbital altitude. Of particular interest will be an area above and South America and the South Atlantic which has been studied carefully by scientific satellites. The data could provide additional clues to the decay of an artificial radiation belt created last summer by a high-altitude U.S. nuclear explosion. Cooper eats and drinks for the first time above Cape Canaveral. As he nears the end of the orbit he shuts off the cabin cooling system. It is to remain off until the 21st orbit in a test of temperature balance with in the spacecraft and to determine how much heat escapes into space. Scientists believe the loss will be slight and could provide information of value in constructing

Birmingham Is Quiet after Racial Rioting

BIRMINGHAM Ala. (AP)—The advance contingent of Army riot control troops began arriving today in this racially troubled city as President Kennedy went ahead with plans to visit Alabama this weekend.

The racial situation here in the words of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was extremely sensitive and tense but he said he expects the agreement reached last week between white and Negro leaders to endure.

He said that despite the weekend of bombings and rioting the truce would not be broken and the racial troubles in this Deep South city would be settled.

A top Army staff officer Maj. Gen. Leighton Abrams was here to direct the military preparations necessary to throw federal reserve troops into action if needed. Abrams is the personal representative of Gen. Earle Wheeler, the Army chief of staff.

Bombings and rioting resulted in injuries to about 5 persons Saturday and Sunday night and during the pre-dawn hours of Sunday.

Life in Birmingham, however, had returned to near normal by mid-morning.

A 28-block area which had been sealed off after Negroes rioted Saturday night was reopened this morning and traffic was functioning at its normal pace.

The Southern Christian Leadership Council said that Jackie Robinson, first Negro to compete in organized major league baseball, and former heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson would fly here tonight. They were scheduled to arrive at 8:25 p.m. (EST).

The Birmingham Police Department said everything was quiet in the steel city this morning. No untoward incidents were reported overnight although more than a thousand city and special police officers held part of the city under virtual martial law.

President Kennedy sent Army troops to two Alabama bases with a grim warning that they would move into Birmingham if new violence erupts. Thousands of Negroes rioted early Sunday after bombs blasted a Negro minister's home and a motel.

Gov. George C. Wallace, arch-segregationist who once defied federal authorities over voter registration records, challenged the President's right to send in federal troops. He insisted state and local officers could preserve law and order.

City officials and Negro leaders issued strong appeals for law and order. Birmingham, like a city under siege, lay uneasily quiet after Mother's Day dawned with smoke and fire from rioting and bombing.

Helmeted state troopers, city policemen and officers from numerous surrounding counties and towns patrolled the cordoned area in shifts. About 50 persons, including police officers, were injured in the rioting.

The President's action was three-pronged:

—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was ordered to alert riot-trained Army units and to deploy them in Alabama. Troops moved into Maxwell Air Force Base at Montgomery, 80 miles to the south, and at Ft. McClellan at Anniston, 60 miles to the east.

—Preliminary steps were taken for federalizing the Alabama National Guard. The papers have not been signed.

—Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall was sent back to Birmingham to consult with citizens and work with other Justice Department officials.

In other developments:

—Shortly before Kennedy spoke, rifle bullets ripped into the home of two Negroes and a Negro church at Anniston, Ala.—where some of the troops were sent.

German Red Guards Halt Flight of 12 in Bus

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards firing submachine guns from point-blank range stopped a desperate attempt by 12 persons to break through the Berlin wall in a bus Sunday.

West Berlin police said a woman and three men were wounded and the driver was killed. The others were led away at gunpoint. All were between 20 and 30.

The fifth American named was Richard Jacob, 26, of Egg Harbor City, N.J., who was ordered out of the Soviet Union on Nov. 5.

Earlier, a U.S. Embassy spokesman reported that four wives of embassy officials were ordered out of Yerevan by Soviet security officers last week, although they had complied with travel regulations.

The women were Mrs. Richard Davies, wife of the embassy counselor; Mrs. William Horbaly, wife of the agricultural attaché; Mrs. Adolph Dubs, wife of the first secretary; and Mrs. Herbert S. Okun, wife of the second secretary.

Argentine Chief Survives Crisis

Controversial Cabinet Minister Quits Post

BUTOS AIRES (AP) — Argentine President Jose Maria Guido appeared today to have survived the ninth crisis of his year-old regime after maneuvering controversial Gen. Enrique Rauch out of the key post of interior minister.

All other Cabinet members resigned Sunday, following Rauch's charge that the administration was riddled with corruption and supporters of ex-dictator Juan Peron and ex-President Arturo Frondizi. Rauch finally handed in his resignation also after apparently getting assurance that some of those he wanted out would be removed.

Guido withheld action on the other ministers but he snapped up Rauch's resignation. He named Gen. Osiris Villegas, former army operations officer, to be interior minister. The post ranks next to the presidency.

Government sources expected Guido to drop four civilian ministers whom Rauch had attacked and War Secretary Benjamin Rattenbach who had denounced the interior minister for causing the Cabinet rift.

Rauch touched off the crisis last week by demanding replacement of most civilians in the Cabinet by military men sweeping arrests and drastic overhaul of Argentina's penal laws to weed out disciples of Frondizi and Peron.

Rauch claimed the support of Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania, the army commander in chief who seconded his call for a crusade against corruption.

Rauch quickly ran into opposition from Rattenbach, however. The war secretary said the main goal of Guido's caretaker regime was to fulfill its promise to hold general elections July 7 to restore a constitutional government. Rattenbach expressed fear that Rauch's crusade might hold off the elections, a move he said could not be tolerated.

Theft Suspect Is Held for Grand Jury

An E. Mound St. man was bound to the Pickaway County Grand Jury today on an accusation of grand larceny concerning an unarmored robbery.

Cited for preliminary hearing was John Styers. He was charged with taking approximately $80 early Sunday morning from a cash register at the American Hotel.

Styers was held for jury action under $500 bond. He pleaded guilty to the accusation.

The theft was reported at about 2:40 a. m. to police by Robert Weffer who was on duty as a night clerk at the hotel. The accused was apprehended within 30 minutes by Sgt. Roderick List and Patrolmen Wesley Barton, Jack Mills and Larry Pontius.

POLICE said all the money was recovered. The loot included bills and a $5 check.

According to officers, Styers was staying at the hotel for the night. They said most of the money was found in his room.

The Russians have orbited two men longer, but they have been close-mouthed about what they found out. U. S. space scientists feel it is vital to find out for themselves.

Other major experiments include a complicated photography program release of a flashing light globe during the flight, a tethered balloon to determine the drag at 100 to 17 miles altitude, and an attempt to sight a three-million candlepower light shined up at him from South Africa.

"Whatever happens to us," she said, "is all a part of the pattern of our lives. I believe God has a pattern for each of us."

How will she while away the long hours Gordon will be in orbit?

"Oh, I'll just walk the floor, and chew my nails, and drink lots of coffee," she said, her face breaking into a broad grin.

Interstate 71 'Expeditor' Opens Office

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus headquarters was opened today to expedite completion of Interstate route 71 between Cincinnati and Cleveland.

Gov. James A. Rhodes and his "freeway expeditor," James W. Shocksnessy, met with state and federal highway engineers and contracting firms.

For Shocksnessy, Columbus attorney and Ohio Turnpike Commission chairman, it is a return to his former Columbus office, now occupied by the highway department.

Shocksnessy, prominent in Ohio Democratic politics, was selected by Rhodes to push completion of about 76 miles of freeway from south of Columbus to the Cincinnati Circle Freeway, and 20 miles of freeway between Medina and the Cleveland Innerbelt. The freeway between Medina and Columbus has been completed.

Shocksnessy said an engineering firm would submit its study of a freeway intersection with the east-west Ohio Turnpike north of Medina by June 1.

Special attention will be given next week to help for families displaced by the freeway into Cleveland, he said.

Highway Director P. E. Mashester said 18 separate projects are under way by contractors on Interstate 71. Schedules are being met, Mashester said. Shocksnessy has said Cincinnati and Cleveland will be connected by the multi-lane freeway by late 1965.

Birmingham Is Quiet after Racial Rioting

BIRMINGHAM Ala. (AP)—The advance contingent of Army riot control troops began arriving today in this racially troubled city as President Kennedy went ahead with plans to visit Alabama this weekend.

The racial situation here in the words of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was extremely sensitive and tense but he said he expects the agreement reached last week between white and Negro leaders to endure.

He said that despite the weekend of bombings and rioting the truce would not be broken and he racial troubles in this Deep South city would be settled.

A top Army staff officer Maj. Gen. Cleighton Abrams was here to direct the military preparations necessary to throw federal reserve troops into action if needed. Abrams is the personal representative of Gen. Earle Wheeler, the Army chief of staff.

Bombings and rioting resulted in injuries to about 5 persons Saturday and Sunday night and during the predawn hours of Sunday.

Life in Birmingham, however, had returned to near normal by mid-morning.

A 28-block area which had been sealed off after Negroes rioted Saturday night was reopened this morning and traffic was functioning at its normal pace.

The Southern Christian Leadership Council said that Jackie Robinson, first Negro to compete in organized major league baseball, and former heavyweight boxing champion Floyd Patterson would fly here tonight. They were scheduled to arrive at 8:25 p.m. (EST).

The Birmingham Police Department said everything was quiet in the steel city this morning. No untoward incidents were reported overnight although more than a thousand city and special police officers held part of the city under virtual martial law.

President Kennedy sent Army troops to two Alabama bases with a grim warning that they would move into Birmingham if new violence erupts. Thousands of Negroes rioted early Sunday after bombs blasted a Negro minister's home and a motel.

Gov. George C. Wallace, arch-segregationist who once defied federal authorities over voter registration records, challenged the President's right to send in federal troops. He insisted state and local officers could preserve law and order.

City officials and Negro leaders issued strong appeals for law and order. Birmingham, like a city under siege, lay uneasily quiet after Mother's Day dawned with smoke and fire from rioting and bombing.

Helmeted state troopers, city policemen and officers from numerous surrounding counties and towns patrolled the cordoned area in shifts. About 50 persons, including police officers, were injured in the rioting.

The President's action was three-pronged:

—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was ordered to alert riot-trained Army units and to deploy them in Alabama. Troops moved into Maxwell Air Force Base at Montgomery, 80 miles to the south, and at Ft. McClellan at Anniston, 60 miles to the east.

—Preliminary steps were taken for federalizing the Alabama National Guard. The papers have not been signed.

—Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall was sent back to Birmingham to consult with citizens and work with other Justice Department officials.

In other developments: —Shortly before Kennedy spoke, rifle bullets ripped into the home of two Negroes and a Negro church at Anniston, Ala.—where some of the troops were sent.

German Red Guards Halt Flight of 12 in Bus

BERLIN (AP) — East German border guards firing submachine guns from point-blank range stopped a desperate attempt by 12 persons to break through the Berlin wall in a bus Sunday.

West Berlin police said a woman and three men were wounded and the driver was killed. The others were led away at gunpoint. All were between 20 and 30.

BLOOD PRESSURE HIGH . . . MORE THAN 100 MILES — Space suited astronaut Gordon Cooper cocks his arm to try the blood pressure device provided for him to take his own blood pressure in space. It's a pre-launch test at Cape Canaveral.

Orbit - by - Orbit Flight Program

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If all goes well, here is the orbit-by-orbit flight program to be followed by Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr. on his manned space flight, a 22-orbit mission lasting 34 hours and 19 minutes:

First Orbit:

The Atlas injects Cooper's Faith 7 spacecraft into orbit over Bermuda five minutes after launch.

Each orbital circuit, ranging from 100 to 170 miles above the earth, takes an hour and 35 minutes. Fourteen minutes after liftoff, a camera mounted above the instrument panel relays the first pictures of an American astronaut in orbit to a tracking station on Grand Canary Island. Cooper devotes most of first orbit to checking spacecraft systems and his physical condition. Blood pressure and oral temperature are taken early to provide basic data for comparison with readings later in flight. A major goal of the flight is to find out how well man can perform tasks during an extended period of weightlessness. Faith 7 crosses southern United States.

Second Orbit:

Television relays pictures to Cape Canaveral and again to Grand Canary Island. Several such transmissions are planned over the tracking ship Coastal Sentry south of Japan. Some of the pictures received at Cape Canaveral are to be converted from slow to normal speed and relayed as swiftly as possible to commercial television channels for home viewing. Cooper's wife, Trudy, and two teenage daughters, following the flight progress at their Houston, Tex., home, thus could be the first astronaut family to see a pilot in action in space. Most of orbit No. 2 is spent in drifting flight, in which all power and controls are shut down and the capsule moves freely on its roll, pitch and yaw axes, revolving once every 30 minutes.

Cooper exercises over Australia

by pulling on a stretchable cord attached to the spacecraft floor between his feet.

Third Orbit:

Over the South Atlantic, Cooper pushes a switch which kicks loose a 10-pound ball from the base of the spacecraft. The sphere, equipped with two lights flashing every second, settles into an orbit slightly different from Faith 7.

During the night phases of the 3rd, 4th and 5th orbits, Cooper is to watch the light, recording his observations on a tape recorder. He is to estimate distance and comment on its appearance against a star or earth background. The purpose is to determine his capability to see a flashing beacon of known intensity and to help set guidelines for future space rendezvous missions in Project Gemini.

Fourth Orbit:

As the spacecraft crosses the South Atlantic, the pilot records radiation measurements from a detector attached inside his hatch cover. This is the first of 10 such readings he is to make throughout the flight to chart radiation at his orbital altitude. Of particular interest will be an area above South America and the South Atlantic which has been studied carefully by scientific satellites.

The data could provide additional clues to the decay of an artificial radiation belt created last summer by a high-altitude U.S. nuclear explosion. Cooper eats and drinks for the first time above Cape Canaveral. As he nears the end of the orbit he shuts off the cabin cooling system. It is to remain off until the 21st orbit in a test of temperature balance with in the spacecraft and to determine how much heat escapes into space. Scientists believe the loss will be slight and could provide information of value in constructing

Deaths and Funerals

MR. LORING A. HOFFMAN
Mr. Loring A. Hoffman, 66, of 343 E. Union St., died 3 a. m. yesterday in Berger Hospital following a lengthy illness.
He was born June 9, 1896, in Circleville, the son of John A. and Sarah Payne Hoffman. He was a farmer.
He is survived by one sister, Helen Hoffman, 343 E. Union St.
Services will be 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Mader Funeral Home with Pastor Carl Zehner officiating. Burial will be in Hitler-Ludwig Cemetery.
Friends may call at the funeral home beginning 7 p. m. today.

MRS. MARY FETHEROLF
Mrs. Mary Fetherolf, 73, Ashville, died last night.
She was born Dec. 16, 1889, in Hocking County the daughter of Samuel and Carrie Davis Moore. Surviving are eight daughters, Mrs. Grace O'Day, Mrs. Jessie Kneec, Mrs. Dorothy O'Day, all of Ashville; Mrs. Ada Wagner and Mrs. Edna Hart, both of Route 2, Amanda; Mrs. Golda Cooper and Mrs. Ruth Stowers, both of Lancaster; three sons, Earl and Sterling, both of the residence; Fred of Gore, O.; 38 grandchildren; 18 great-grandchildren.

Three sisters, Mrs. Lydia Sisson, Lancaster; Mrs. Laura Larson and Miss Maggie Moore, both of Amanda; five brothers, George, Frank and William, all of Lancaster; Clinton and Edward both of Amanda.

Services will be 1:30 p. m. Wednesday in the Church of Christ in Christian Union. Burial will be in Mt. Olive Cemetery at South Perry, O.

Friends may call at the Bastian Funeral Home, Ashville, beginning 7 p. m. today until 11 a. m. Wednesday, then at the church.

DOUGLAS ALLEN VINCENT
Douglas Allen Vincent, 22-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Theodore Vincent Jr., 338 E. Mount St. died unexpectedly at 11 a. m. yesterday.

He was born July 5, 1961 in Berger Hospital.

Also surviving are one brother, Mitchell, 8; three sisters, Brenda, 5, Pamela, 4, Deborah, 8 months; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Mary Vincent, Bloomington; paternal grandfather, L. Theodore Vincent Sr., Washington C. H.; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Hursh, Springfield.

Services will be 1:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Kirkpatrick Funeral Home, New Holland. Burial will be in New Holland Cemetery. Friends may call at the funeral home.

Mother's Day Plants Readied By Students

Students of the School for Exceptional (Retarded) Children were treated to lessons in planting gourd seeds and potting a flower for Mother's Day by members of the Circleville Garden Club.

Mrs. Donald Watt, Mrs. Howard Smith, Mrs. C. C. McClure and Mrs. Elmer Wolf, all members of the club, supervised the work with seeds and flowers.

The students are also busy preparing for their annual program for the public Wednesday at the St. Philip's Episcopal Church Parish House. The event will start at 7:30 p. m.

Teachers of the school today commended the garden club members for donating their time and efforts in working with the children Friday.

One of the teachers, Mrs. Elzie Brooks, commented "this proved to be an educational feature which opened the gates to a better understanding of life and growth for the children."

24 Motorists Sign Waivers

Speeders Head Heavy City Court Docket

A total of 24 motorists, cited by the State Highway Patrol for various traffic offenses during the weekend, signed waivers in Circleville Municipal Court and paid fines.

The OSP traffic control plane was in the air over local highways, accounting in part for today's heavy traffic docket.

Motorists fined $15 and costs for exceeding the speed limit by 15 miles per hour were George M. Gondsky, 44, Riverview, Mich.; Bill W. Thompson, Winona Lake, Ind.; and Jesse W. Casto, 26, Columbus.

Charged with exceeding the legal speed limit by ten miles per hour and fined $10 and costs were: Marietta Valentine, Cicero, Ill.; James J. Watters, Thurman W. Shepman, 38, Columbus; Robert A. Newman, 31, Portsmouth; Roy T. Cherry, 41, Columbus; Joe Hammond, 20, Columbus; Charles E. Corns, 26, Rocky River, O.; James A. Barnett, 43, Pedro, O.

Paying fines of $20 were: J. W. Kilgore Jr., 25, Saginaw, Mich.; Charles E. Ray 25, Marion; Charles O. Harris, 38, Huntington, W. Va.; Leroy Breech, 27, Columbus; R. H. Kiser, 28, Blue Field, Va.

Other motorists charged with speeding included Janet Anne Bartram, 18, Ft. Gay, W. Va.; $18 and costs for speeding 78 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Lester Brown, 53, Gayley Bridge, W. Va.; $11 and costs for speeding 71 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Ralph Marcum, 24, Columbus; $25 and costs for speeding 75 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Other traffic violators included the following:

Gerald Noble Jr., 19, Adelphi; $15 and costs for passing when a yellow line was in his lane of traffic.

Ronald Riffle, 20, Route 1, $10 and costs for creating a disturbance with a motor vehicle.

Donald E. Willis, 28, Clarksville; $15 and costs for failure to yield the right of way.

Jay E. Francis, 47, Reynoldsburg; $24 bond forfeiture for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Woman Cited For Illegal Sale of Malt

A local woman, accused of illegally selling malt liquor in a home at 817 Clinton St., was scheduled for a preliminary hearing today in Circleville Municipal Court.

The charges were filed against Lucy Poindester. She was apprehended about 1:30 a. m. Sunday by two agents from the Ohio Department of Liquor Control, along with Circleville police.

According to police, she was picked up for selling malt liquor after hours at a private home with no license to do so. Officers said she sold three bottles of 6 per cent beer to Agents Frank E. Gravely and Charles E. Johnson.

Assisting in the arrest were Police Sgt. Roderick List and Patrolman Larry Loutious.

ing future spaceship temperature systems.

Fifth Orbit:
The pilot devotes this orbit to checking systems and physical condition again. He crosses South America the first time, making a radiation reading. Flashing beacon is observed over Indian Ocean. A second exercise period is conducted as Cooper approaches California Coast.

Sixth Orbit:
Cooper pitches Faith 7 down at angle in an effort to spot a three-million-candlepower light on the ground in South Africa. The experiment is to help determine whether a manned spacecraft returning to earth from the moon can use a high intensity light as a navigation aid. Over the Pacific he releases a 30-inch inflatable orange balloon from the top of Faith 7 and observes and photographs it for 90 minutes as it trails behind on a 100-foot line. The recording of drag effects could determine atmospheric density at the orbital altitudes and provide further information on the pilot's ability to observe an object in space.

Seventh Orbit:
If all goes well, Cooper sets a space flight record for American astronauts, surpassing the six-orbit mission of Walter M. Schirra Jr. last fall. The full 22-orbit trip still falls short of the 64-and 48-orbit rides made last August by the two Soviet cosmonauts who orbited the globe simultaneously. Cooper studies known stars in daylight and dark and estimates their intensity. First television transmission made to the Coastal Sentry south of Japan. Shortly afterward balloon is cut loose and Cooper tracks it, estimating distances at various times. He makes first of seven passes over Red China and eats and drinks west of Chile.

Eighth Orbit:
Additional spacecraft and physical checks are made. Ninth through 15th orbits: Cooper is to sleep for eight hours, starting at his option during the ninth orbit. If at times he is not asleep, the pilot will monitor systems, operate the television camera or do other tasks at his discretion. Capsule is in drifting flight during the sleep period. If Cooper oversleeps, the Muecha, Australia, station sends an alarm signal to wake him.

Cooper swings a battery of cameras into action. At sunset over the Indian Ocean, he photographs the zodiacal light, the nebulous glow visible in the east before dawn and in the west after sundown. Pictures could determine whether the phenomenon is caused by the reflection of the sun's rays off dust clouds, as scientists suspect. He also photographs the horizon and the air-glow hovering above the horizon in tests aimed at determining whether the horizon can be used as a navigation reference for returning moonships.

17th Orbit:
Cooper snaps infrared photographs of clouds and other weather features. Results could help devise cameras for weather satellites.

18th Orbit:
The astronaut conducts medical, spacecraft, television, radiation and other checks.

19th Orbit:
Southeast of Cuba, he photographs the moon and horizon in a single picture in another moon-return navigation experiment. A 28-foot extendable antenna designed for use on the two-man Gemini spacecraft is given communications check with Pacific stations.

20th Orbit:
Systems monitoring continues. Gemini antenna tested again, this time over Atlantic.

21st Orbit:
Cabin cooling system, shut off during fourth orbit, is restored. Cooper again photographs horizon over Indian Ocean.

22nd Orbit:
In preparation for return to earth, Cooper begins stowing loose equipment over Africa. Above Indian Ocean careful checks are made so the capsule is in proper re-entry attitude and the automatic clock that fires the retro-rockets is correct. Three reverse rockets fire east of Shanghai, China, and Faith 7 makes 15-minute descent to parachute landing 80 miles southeast of Midway Island in the Pacific. Recovery ship ship picks up the astronaut and he begins two days of intensive shipboard medical examination.

Youngster Hurt At Intersection

Constance Glick, 9, of 217 Nicholas Drive, suffered injuries to the left side of her leg in a car-pedestrian mishap about 7:30 p. m. Saturday at Court and Main Sts. Police said the girl was taken to Berger Hospital.

The auto was driven by Leo K. Madden, 26, of 939 S. Washington St. He told Patrolmen Wesley Barton and Dixie Watters he had pulled up to the traffic light and the girl ran into the right front end of the car.

Madden said a companion with the girl was not hurt. Police are still investigating.

Federal Troops Alert for Use In Birmingham

—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the desegregation drive, urged discipline, restraint and nonviolence of Birmingham Negroes and insisted a shaky biracial agreement to settle the segregation dispute remained in effect.

—Mayor Albert Boutwell took a personal look at the damage and pledged, "retribution there will be — swift, stern and in full measure." Every resource, he said, was bent to apprehend those who planted the bombs.

—Wallace urged Alabama congressmen to use their influence for withdrawal of the federal troops.

—Negro leaders, including King, charged police officers with brutality. This was denied by officials.

The President pledged federal troop use in the wake of night-long rioting that followed the bombing of the Gaston Motel, a headquarters of the integration movement, and the residence of the Rev. A. D. King, a younger brother of King.

Kennedy cut short a weekend at Camp David in the Maryland mountains and returned to Washington for consultation before announcing his decision.

Wallace told newsmen he had telegraphed Kennedy: "In my judgment, these mobsters want federal troops and your statement only tends to aggravate and inflame."

He asked Kennedy, "under what authority would you send federal troops into the state?"

At a mass church meeting of about 2,000 Negroes, King said he considered Kennedy's statement a strong one which "shows the administration is concerned about this problem and is willing to take forthright action to preserve the citizenship rights of Birmingham Negroes."

The Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, an associate of King, told the wildly cheering audience that "Gov. Wallace has moved with his statement, but thanks be to God there's one higher than he!"

Abernathy said state troopers had beaten the Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, top aide to King, and Mrs. Walker, State Public Safety Director Al Lingo denied it.

The Negro leaders spoke at a church which for the first time was guarded by police officers with carbines, shotguns and sidearms.

About one mile away, smoke rose from the rubble of two stores and a house either destroyed or ruined by fire set during Saturday night's melees.

The night's terror began when two blasts wrecked the home of the Rev. A. D. King. He and his wife and five children escaped injury. A large crowd of negroes formed but was dispersed by King.

The two bombs damaged the Gaston Motel in the Negro business section. Three women were injured.

Thousands of Negroes gathered in the area. They shelled police and fire vehicles with rocks and other missiles.

A policeman was stabbed twice in the back.

A white taxi driver was dragged from his cab and stabbed. Negroes overturned his cab and set fire to it in front of a church.

Rocks rained on police cars and autos of passersby. Tires were slashed, fires set and knives flashed. Negro civil defense workers and integration leaders restored some semblance of order by dawn.

1896 ruling and banned segregation in public schools.

In the 58 years between the two decisions the Negroes were in no position to stage massive protests against segregation. If they had tried, federal troops could have been used against them to uphold the court's ruling.

Instead of direct action, they began as early as 1916 to seek through subsequent Supreme Courts to whittle away at the ruling which kept them legally apart.

On the whole these governments, despite some good things done were incompetent and corrupt. After about a dozen years of this white Southerners moved back into control through violence intimidation, and political machinery.

Segregation began. By state law, for instance, in Louisiana. And in 1896 the Supreme Court ruled it was constitutional for states to segregate Negroes provided they got treatment equal to that given whites.

Separate but equal meant, as it turned out, separate and unequal. The separate but equal doctrine—the law of the land—lasted 8 years until on May 17, 1954, the Supreme Court reversed that and, in effect, made them second-class citizens.

Then in the 1930s and the 1940s —through the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People — Negroes through lawyers appealing to the Supreme Court sought to undo the ruling of 1896.

They won case after case when the court responded by banning segregation in graduate schools, on interstate buses, and so on, until the school decision came down in 1954.

But that decision didn't say how fast desegregation of public schools should proceed. On May 31, 1955, the court gave its answer: with "all deliberate speed."

What did that mean? Southern states interpreted it as meaning very slowly. It has been very slow. The Negroes are impatient, so impatient that some of them now condemn the NAACP for being too slow by relying too much on legal efforts to hasten the process. So some have resorted to direct action.

Federal Troops Alert for Use In Birmingham

—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the desegregation drive, urged discipline, restraint and nonviolence of Birmingham Negroes and insisted a shaky biracial agreement to settle the segregation dispute remained in effect.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—The racial disorders in Birmingham are only the latest evidence of Negroes' rapidly growing willingness to act by themselves against discrimination.

Their actions now—in massive demonstrations, sit-ins, and most recently in riots in the Alabama city—have been building up as they got tired waiting for equal treatment.

They've been waiting, except for a brief time in Reconstruction days, for 175 years.

But it has been possible for them to make these forceful demands only in the past nine years because, until then, even the Supreme Court said it was all right to segregate them.

It was nine years ago this week—on May 17, 1954—that the Supreme Court outlawed segregation in public schools and opened the door to banning segregation in all public places.

A brief time-table of major events in American history shows how long the Negroes have been waiting.

The Constitution—ratified on June 21, 1788—permitted slavery without mentioning it by name and even permitted the import of slaves until 1808.

On March 6, 1857 the Supreme Court—in the case of a runaway slave, Dred Scott—ruled that neither slaves nor their descendants are citizens and so are not entitled to the benefits and protections of citizens.

That decision enlarged slavery and helped bring on the Civil War.

In the middle of the war—on Jan. 1, 1863—President Lincoln issued his Emancipation Proclamation freeing the slaves. On Dec. 18, 1865, after Lincoln's death, the Constitution's 13th Amendment abolished slavery.

Then, three years later, on July 28, 1868, the 14th Amendment declared that all persons born or naturalized in the United States are citizens.

It said no state "shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Republican "radicals" set out to punish the South. With their help and the help of northern carpetbaggers Negroes controlled a number of state legislatures in the South even though many of them couldn't read or write.

On the whole these governments, despite some good things done were incompetent and corrupt. After about a dozen years of this white Southerners moved back into control through violence intimidation, and political machinery.

Segregation began. By state law, for instance, in Louisiana. And in 1896 the Supreme Court ruled it was constitutional for states to segregate Negroes provided they got treatment equal to that given whites.

Resistance to Change

All the uproar over the balk rule in the National League illustrates one of the sad aspects of organized baseball: its resistance to change.

Of course, what is involved here is not a rule change. The balk rule already existed. The change was in the National League's insistence that the rule be enforced. The outcry that resulted underlines baseball's familiar let's - do - it-like-we've-always-done-it attitude.

More than any other sport, baseball refuses to change with the times. While basketball and football, for example, have been improved and revised - with a resultant gain in popularity - baseball plugs along in its rut and today has a dubious claim to the title of "national pastime."

Many suggestions have been made toward speeding up the game and making it more interesting, but about the only change that has been accomplished is getting the fielders to bring their gloves in off the diamond at the end of each half-inning.

Many love baseball because of the very fact that it is slower and more subtle than some other spectator sports. The moments of thrills, tension and suspense are sweeter because they are contrasted with the times of calm and quietude. But a virtue can be turned into a vice.

Few people today have two-and-a-half, three, four hours to spend at a game. Too many other interests and activities beckon. Baseball should recognize the facts of modern life. Why not wave a batter to first on an intentional walk instead of requiring four outside pitches? Why not cut down the interval between innings?

Why not insist the pitcher hurry it up a little? (The National Baseball Congress has experimented with this).

Baseball is too fine a sport to be allowed to die because of failure to adapt.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—How much inflation would be good for the country?

The question is heard again as a few prices here and there are jacked up after a period of stability, as workers ask higher wages or job security that adds to operating costs, as prospects for larger federal deficits renew fears of more monetary inflation.

The answer to how much would be good for those living on fixed incomes or on wages that are slow to hit any up-trail is: none.

Some businessmen, however, hold that a moderate inflation would start the general economy rolling faster and thus would help more than it would hurt. And workers best able to keep wage boosts even with or ahead of general price increases often see inflation as only a theoretical problem.

A favorite argument is that the nation must choose between inflation and unemployment through stagnation.

The cost of living, in fact, has kept rising in most of the post-war years, slowly of late after several big spurts that were really felt. Even this creeping inflation pinches the many whose incomes are set or don't respond quikly to a general trend. The most popular rule of thumb now is that wages and prices

Challenging the argument that "a moderate degree of inflation is necessary to spur economic growth and to create new employment opportunities," Dr. Marcus Nadler, consulting economist of Manufacturers Hanover Trust of New York, holds that this has been disproved in this country and abroad.

"Inflation tends to channel the flow of capital into speculative ventures seeking high return and in the long run slows the economic growth rate," the bank economist says.

But as long as the economy doesn't grow fast enough to provide jobs for an increasing labor force, the questions will be heard:

Shouldn't the government collect less in taxes and spend more - by borrowing - to increase purchasing power and investment funds?

Would all this be inflationary in a bad sense?

You would probably be surprised to know how many of the people you saw today were wearing contact lenses. More and more people are finding that the little inconvenience in adjusting to the use of contact lenses is more than compensated for by the joy of wearing them.

At first their only appeal was in the interest of vanity. Artists in the entertainment world welcomed these amazing little lenses with great enthusiasm, for it was now possible to look their professional best on stage and still be able to enjoy good vision. Television performers no longer had to rely completely on their memories; they could now read their cue cards.

The successful experience of a few inspired others to try them. Before long, contact lenses became a new way of seeing. They are no longer a "fad" in high schools and colleges; they are so popular among young people that very few have not at least considered the possibility of owning them.

Although vanity was the compelling reason for the initial popularity of contact lenses, another advantage - important from a medical point of view - has now come to light. As the tiny lenses continued to be perfected, it was found that they were actually beneficial for certain eye conditions.

Eye specialists feel that the rapid progress of myopia, or nearsightedness, can be successfully prevented with the use of contact lenses. This, of course, has given even greater impetus to their acceptance.

There is still a large group of people who feel that conventional eyeglasses can actually enhance the face, or at least they are perfectly satisfied to continue wearing them. There are still others who are just waiting to get the courage to order contact lenses. But this group seems to be getting

He Wasn't Wronged

By John Chamberlain

When J. Robert Oppenheimer, the wartime director of the Los Alamos atomic energy project, was named as the 1963 recipient of the government's Fermi award of $50,000 for outstanding work in atomic science, it was hailed in certain quarters as the vindication of a reputation.

According to the ADA - Americans for Democratic Action - Oppenheimer had been foully slandered back in 1954, when, by a 4-1 vote, the Atomic Energy Commission deprived him of access to atomic secrets on the grounds that he was a security risk. This denial of security clearance, so said an ADA spokesman, was part and parcel of a "bad hang-over of McCarthyism."

Since Dr. Oppenheimer has been spending his time in recent years meditating at Princeton on the moral climate of our times in mellowed isolation, this column has no desire to hurt him by bringing up old charges. But the imputation that the charming "Oppy" was a victim of "McCarthyism" is too much to let pass without comment. The fact is that the panel headed by educator Gordon Gray, which sifted the whole problem of Oppenheimer's behavior as head of Los Alamos, was the very antithesis of "McCarthyism."

"McCarthyism," over the years has taken on the connotation of unjust accusation. But no investigatory body ever accused Dr. Oppenheimer of anything beyond muddying the waters when the FBI and the Atomic Energy Commission tried to get at the truth about his associations with certain old friends. Oppenheimer was not called an "agent" or a "traitor" or anything like that. Indeed, the inference to be drawn from some 900 pages of testimony is that he was a political innocent, one of those "useful" innocents who, precisely because they don't know beans about questions of Marxism or the history of the Communist Revolution, have to be told again and again that people like Lenin, Stalin and Khrushchev aren't law-abiding "democrats."

The truth about Oppenheimer, as is emphasized in a forthcoming book by Ralph de Toledano called "The Greatest Plot in History: How the Reds Stole the A-Bomb," is that he was a softhe in a position that demanded hard intelligence about the danger of giving critical jobs to scientists who might have been dupes of the Communists. In the period before he was tapped to organize the atomic energy project at Los Alamos, Oppenheimer had had friendly social relations with admitted Communists and fellow travelers. His wife and brother had both been members of the Communist Party, and he himself had contributed part of his salary to Communist coffers even up into the time of the Hitler-Stalin pact.

All of this might have been neither here nor there if Oppenheimer had been careful to make a clean breast of his associations when he was in a position to affect the hiring and firing of government atomic energy personnel. But the Gray committee found he had been "less than candid" in testifying about his old pals of Berkeley, California, days.

During the war, when the Communists were our allies, it could have been represented as the part of wisdom to make use of Oppenheimer's knowledge of atomic physics in order to push the atomic bomb to completion. Speed was of the essence in those days, and questions of "security" vis-a-vis the Russians had not yet become obviously critical. But after 1945, when the Soviets were our newest enemies, the business of employing brilliant physicists who happened also to be political innocents could not be regarded in the rosy light of 1941-45. The development of the hydrogen bomb was up for decision - and when Oppenheimer opposed the H-bomb program the members of the Atomic Energy Commission were quite understandably perplexed.

In sitting in final judgment, the AEC found that Oppenheimer's associations with Communists and fellow travelers had gone beyond the limits of prudence and that he had been "willful" in obstructing inquiry. Well, if Senator Joseph McCarthy had limited his criticism of certain characters to such temperately objective statements, nobody would have dared to make use of the word "McCarthyism" as a term of opprobrium. Oppenheimer was treated gently, and to say that he was made the victim of a "McCarthyite reign of terror" is a violent travesty on history.

Resistance to Change

All the uproar over the balk rule in the National League illustrates one of the sad aspects of organized baseball: its resistance to change.

Of course, what is involved here is not a rule change. The balk rule already existed. The change was in the National League's insistence that the rule be enforced. The outcry that resulted underlines baseball's familiar let's - do - it - like - we've-always-done-it attitude.

More than any other sport, baseball refuses to change with the times. While basketball and football, for example, have been improved and revised - with a resultant gain in popularity - baseball plugs along in its rut and today has a dubious claim to the title of "national pastime."

Many suggestions have been made toward speeding up the game and making it more interesting, but about the only change that has been accomplished is getting the fielders to bring their gloves in off the diamond at the end of each half-inning.

Many love baseball because of the very fact that it is slower and more subtle than some other spectator sports. The moments of thrills, tension and suspense are sweeter because they are contrasted with the times of calm and quietude. But a virtue can be turned into a vice.

Few people today have two-and-a-half, three, four hours to spend at a game. Too many other interests and activities beckon. Baseball should recognize the facts of modern life. Why not wave a batter to first on an intentional walk instead of requiring four outside pitches? Why not cut down the interval between innings?

Why not insist the pitcher hurry it up a little? (The National Baseball Congress has experimented with this).

Baseball is too fine a sport to be allowed to die because of failure to adapt.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—How much inflation would be good for the country?

The question is heard again as a few prices here and there are jacked up after a period of stability, as workers ask higher wages or job security that adds to operating costs, as prospects for larger federal deficits renew fears of more monetary inflation.

The answer to how much would be good for those living on fixed incomes or on wages that are slow to hit any up-trail is: none.

Some businessmen, however, hold that a moderate inflation would start the general economy rolling faster and thus would help more than it would hurt. And workers best able to keep wage boosts even with or ahead of general price increases often see inflation as only a theoretical problem.

A favorite argument is that the nation must choose between inflation and unemployment through stagnation.

The cost of living, in fact, has kept rising in most of the post-war years, slowly of late after several big spurts that were really felt. Even this creeping inflation pinches the many whose incomes are set or not respond quikly to a general trend.

The most popular rule of thumb now is that wages and prices should rise only as productivity does. But to work, the benefits of this rising productivity - more goods at less cost per unit—must be shared by all parts of the population.

Challenging the argument that "a moderate degree of inflation is necessary to spur economic growth and to create new employment opportunities," Dr. Marcus Nadler, consulting economist of Manufacturers Hanover Trust of New York, holds that this has been disproved in this country and abroad.

"Inflation tends to channel the flow of capital into speculative ventures seeking high return and in the long run slows the economic growth rate," the bank economist says.

But as long as the economy doesn't grow fast enough to provide jobs for an increasing labor force, the questions will be heard:

Shouldn't take-home pay rise so that there will be more purchasing power to buy more goods?

Shouldn't prices rise so that better profit margins will furnish both incentive and funds to invest to make more business and more jobs?

Shouldn't the government collect less in taxes and spend more—by borrowing—to increase purchasing power and investment funds?

Would all this be inflationary in a bad sense?

A lot of people, as well as Dr. Nadler, say: yes, unless productivity increases all along the line. But a lot say productivity will anyway.

"That won't be enough," mourned the patient. "I also want to know what makes me chime every quarter of an hour."

When the late Gertrude Stein and her lifelong companion, Alice Toklas, were visiting Chicago in the 1930s, they prevailed upon the head of the police department to take them for a midnight round in a police squad car. Earlier in the evening, Miss Stein entertained Critic Fanny Butcher and Chancellor Bob Hutchins of Chicago University, at dinner. All of these distinguished figures were both articulate and sure of their opinions and an argument ensued that grew louder and more vehement by the moment. At its height the maid rushed in, white as a sheet, and reported, "Miss Stein! The police are here!"

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

You would probably be surprised to know how many of the people you saw today were wearing contact lenses. More and more people are finding that the little inconvenience in adjusting to the use of contact lenses is more than compensated for by the joy of wearing them.

At first their only appeal was in the interest of vanity.

Artists in the entertainment world welcomed these amazing little lenses with great enthusiasm, for it was now possible to look their professional best on stage and still be able to enjoy good vision. Television performers no longer had to rely completely on their memories; they could now read their cue cards.

The successful experience of a few inspired others to try them. Before long, contact lenses became a new way of seeing. They are no longer a "fad" in high schools and colleges; they are so popular among young people that very few have not at least considered the possibility of owning them.

Although vanity was the compelling reason for the initial popularity of contact lenses, another advantage - important from a medical point of view - has now come to light. As the tiny lenses continued to be perfected, it was found that they were actually beneficial for certain eye conditions.

Eye specialists feel that the rapid progress of myopia, or near-sightedness, can be successfully prevented with the use of contact lenses. This, of course, has given even greater impetus to their acceptance.

There is still a large group of people who feel that conventional eyeglasses can actually enhance the face, or at least they are perfectly satisfied to continue wearing them. There are still others who are just waiting to get the courage to order contact lenses. But this group seems to be getting smaller each day as more and more Americans are appreciating the great advantages of this revolutionary technique for improved vision.

Do you or your children spend uninterrupted hours sitting in the same position watching the television screen? A survey in Great Britain has revealed that many people who did not get up and walk around and take the "7th inning stretch" developed many kinds of muscular aches and pains in the neck and in the legs.

For sitting in a single position for a long time can impair the circulation of the blood. The survey added that this is particularly important to people who drive for long distances in their automobiles.

To get up every once in a while, stretch your legs and your mind too! It's good for you.

He Wasn't Wronged

By John Chamberlain

When J. Robert Oppenheimer, the wartime director of the Los Alamos atomic energy project, was named as the 1963 recipient of the government's Fermi award of $50,000 for outstanding work in atomic science, it was hailed in certain quarters as the vindication of a reputation.

According to the ADA - Americans for Democratic Action - Oppenheimer had been foully slandered back in 1954, when, by a 4-1 vote, the Atomic Energy Commission deprived him of access to atomic secrets on the grounds that he was a security risk. This denial of security clearance, so said an ADA spokesman, was part and parcel of a "bad hang-over of McCarthyism."

Mock Moonshot Flight Taken by Three-Man Crew

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Astronaut Alan Shepard gazed intently at the winking instrument panel before him.

A bright, red ball danced crazily on a screen in the upper left corner, registering the pitch, yaw and roll of his space vehicle. A miniature television screen to his right, immediately in front of the co-pilot, showed the moon's rough, craterpitted surface growing ever larger as touchdown rapidly approached.

Shepard checked the instrument panel again. It was time.

Signaling the navigator to precede him, he crawled carefully under the co-pilot's seat into the after section of the mother ship then through a flexible tube into the smaller vehicle that would take them out of the moon orbit and down on the surface of the moon itself.

The hatch was sealed, and the moon craft started the final phase of its journey.

The flight that Shepard and his two-man crew were making, however, was not in the black void of outer space. It began and ended at the Martin Company's Baltimore Division.

For here, situated in a room the size of a football field, is the most complete moon-flight simulator in the country.

The capsules themselves — both detailed mock-ups of the real thing.

The entire room is blacked out.

In the mother ship, three huge, padded reclining chairs face the softly lighted instrument console, and the astronauts control their flight just as they will when the voyage is finally made — from blastoff to recovery. The simulated flight, just as its real-life counterpart, takes several days.

In the capsule, the astronauts must maintain a strict schedule.

Each man acts as pilot for only three consecutive hours.

Tem not in actual control, crew members either are on duty as copilot, sleeping eating or relaxing in the "lounge" which is another big reclining chair in the rear of the capsule.

In the lounge, tape-recorded music from classical to Frank Sinatra vocals helps combat boredom.

2 Hospital Studies Planned in SW Ohio

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Southwest Ohio Health Care Study Committee is launching two study programs this week—one to find out how people pay for hospitalization and the other to determine how hospitals use the money. Dean Ralph C. Bursiek of the University of Cincinnati said one of the objects of the study is to see how the various hospitalization insurance plans work out.

The studies will deal with hospitals in Adams, Brown, Butler, Clark, Clermont, Clinton, Darke, Greene, Hamilton, Highland, Miami, Montgomery, Preble, Scioto and Warren counties.

Hitchhiker Slaying Trial To Start Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The first-degree murder trial of Franklin T. Clark, 23, of Cortland, N.Y., accused hitchhiker-slayer of David E. Mason, 22, of Newark, Ohio, was scheduled to get under way in Common Pleas Court here today.

Clark was tracked down and arrested in his home town several days after the body of Mason who had been shot fatally, was found along a rural lane on Columbus' west outskirts. Clark, declared by Lima State Hospital authorities legally sane to stand trial, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Closed circuit television and hidden microphones record every movement and sound aboard the capsule.

A miniature television mounted in the control panel is used for visual guidance as the spacecraft closes with the moon. Actually, the view is a sand mock-up outside the building.

When a satisfactory lunar orbit is achieved, two of the astronauts crawl through a flexible metal tube into the moon vehicle. The hatch is sealed and the tube withdrawn into the mother ship to simulate detachment.

Once landed on the moon, the astronauts must blast off and rendezvous with the mother ship.

The moon vehicle itself can pitch, yaw and roll just as an actual spacecraft. Through a window, the pilot can see thousands of stars, thrown by projector on a large screen. As he watches intently, he sees what he is seeking — the tiny, blinking light of the mother ship. The course is set.

If he has been accurate, the light becomes larger and larger. When the time is right, the vehicle is turned and the pilot rotates his chair so he can look through another aperture in the roof. Now he must guide the ship into contact with the main spacecraft.

In the simulator, a second mock-up of the mother craft is suspended from the ceiling. It can move in any direction. So, although the pilot actually is maneuvering his moon-raft, the mock-up of the mother ship responds.

If he is accurate, the two ships engage as they would in outer space.

Then it's back to the mother ship for the return journey to earth.

The purpose of the operation is to remove the kinks from the operation so when the actual moon-shot is made, the problems will be minimal.

C.F. Barbour, technical coordinator of the moon-shot simulator, recalls that one pilot jettisoned 300,000 gallons of fuel on the launch pad. Another "bounced pretty hard when he landed on the moon."

At Martins, such miscalculations result in aborting the mission.

In the vast reaches of outer space, however, there can be no mistakes.

Mock Moonshot Flight Taken by Three-Man Crew

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Astronaut Alan Shepard gazed intently at the winking instrument panel before him.

A bright, red ball danced crazily on a screen in the upper left corner, registering the pitch, yaw and roll of his space vehicle. A miniature television screen to his right, immediately in front of the co-pilot, showed the moon's rough, craterpitted surface growing ever larger as touchdown rapidly approached.

Shepard checked the instrument panel again. It was time.

Signaling the navigator to precede him, he crawled carefully under the co-pilot's seat into the after section of the mother ship then through a flexible tube into the smaller vehicle that would take them out of the moon orbit and down on the surface of the moon itself.

The hatch was sealed, and the moon craft started the final phase of its journey.

The flight that Shepard and his two-man crew were making, however, was not in the black void of outer space. It began and ended at the Martin Company's Baltimore Division.

For here, situated in a room the size of a football field, is the most complete moon-flight simulator in the country.

The capsules themselves — both detailed mock-ups of the real thing.

The entire room is blacked out.

In the mother ship, three huge, padded reclining chairs face the softly lighted instrument console, and the astronauts control their flight just as they will when the voyage is finally made — from blastoff to recovery. The simulated flight, just as its real-life counterpart, takes seven days.

In the capsule, the astronauts must maintain a strict schedule.

Each man acts as pilot for only three consecutive hours.

Tem not in actual control, crew members either are on duty as copilot, sleeping eating or relaxing in the "lounge" which is another big reclining chair in the rear of the capsule.

In the lounge, tape-recorded music from classical to Frank Sinatra vocals helps combat boredom.

2 Hospital Studies Planned in SW Ohio

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Southwest Ohio Health Care Study Committee is launching two study programs this week—one to find out how people pay for hospitalization and the other to determine how hospitals use the money. Dean Ralph C. Bursiek of the University of Cincinnati said one of the objects of the study is to see how the various hospitalization insurance plans work out.

The studies will deal with hospitals in Adams, Brown, Butler, Clark, Clermont, Clinton, Darke, Greene, Hamilton, Highland, Miami, Montgomery, Preble, Scioto and Warren counties.

Hitchhiker Slaying Trial To Start Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The first-degree murder trial of Franklin T. Clark, 23, of Cortland, N.Y., accused hitchhiker-slayer of David E. Mason, 22, of Newark, Ohio, was scheduled to get under way in Common Pleas Court here today.

Clark was tracked down and arrested in his home town several days after the body of Mason who had been shot fatally, was found along a rural lane on Columbus' west outskirts. Clark, declared by Lima State Hospital authorities legally sane to stand trial, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Closed circuit television and hidden microphones record every movement and sound aboard the capsule.

A miniature television mounted in the control panel is used for visual guidance as the spacecraft closes with the moon. Actually, the view is a sand mock-up outside the building.

When a satisfactory lunar orbit is achieved, two of the astronauts crawl through a flexible metal tube into the moon vehicle. The hatch is sealed and the tube withdrawn into the mother ship to simulate detachment.

Once landed on the moon, the astronauts must blast off and rendezvous with the mother ship.

The moon vehicle itself can pitch, yaw and roll just as an actual spacecraft. Through a window, the pilot can see thousands of stars, thrown by projector on a large screen. As he watches intently, he sees what he is seeking — the tiny, blinking light of the mother ship. The course is set.

If he has been accurate, the light becomes larger and larger. When the time is right, the vehicle is turned and the pilot rotates his chair so he can look through another aperture in the roof. Now he must guide the ship into contact with the main spacecraft.

In the simulator, a second mock-up of the mother craft is suspended from the ceiling. It can move in any direction. So, although the pilot actually is maneuvering his moon-ship, the mock-up of the mother ship responds.

If he is accurate, the two ships engage as they would in outer space.

Then it's back to the mother ship for the return journey to earth.

The purpose of the operation is to remove the kinks from the operation so when the actual moon-shot is made, the problems will be minimal.

C.F. Barbour, technical coordinator of the moon-shot simulator, recalls that one pilot jettisoned 300,000 gallons of fuel on the launch pad. Another "bounced pretty hard when he landed on the moon."

At Martins, such miscalculations result in aborting the mission.

In the vast reaches of outer space, however, there can be no mistakes.

Flower Show Schedule Listed

The Monrovia Garden Club is announcing the County Federation of Garden Clubs annual Spring Flower Show and meet to be held June 12 at the Five Points Methodist Church.

Mrs. Florence Haughn and Mrs. Charles Flemming have arranged this schedule for the show: Section 1 — Artistic Designs: Class 1 — Tranquility: An arrangement using water to simulate a lake, pool or stream. Class 2 — Way Out: An arrangement in the latest modernistic manner. Class 3 — June Elegance: An arrangement featuring roses. Class 4 — Barefoot Boy: An arrangement using roadside material.

Section II — Specimens: Class 5 — Roses, tea, any color, three individual blooms; Class 6 — Roses, grandiflora, any color, 1 stem; Class 7 — Roses, floribunda, any color, 1 stem; Class 8 — Roses, bi-color, three individual blooms; Class 9 — Peony, double, any color, 1 bloom; Class 10 — Peony, single, any color, 1 bloom; Class 11 — Iris, bearded, any color, 1 stem; Class 12 — Iris, beardless, any color, 1 stem.

The rules are as follows: 1. Closing time for entries is 10:30 a. m. No entry will be accepted after this time. All exhibitors must complete any adjustment of their entries by closing time. 2. Any member of any club belonging to the Ohio Association of Garden Clubs may enter. 3. Exhibitors may enter as many classes as desired but only one entry to a class. 4. Bases and accessories will be considered as part of the arrangement. 5. Management cannot be responsible for any breakage or damage to materials used. 6. No greenhouse material will be permitted. 7. Specimens must be grown by exhibitors. 8. Exhibitors will furnish own containers for specimens.

A table for non-competitive horticulture exhibits will be available for those who wish to display them.

Mrs. Georgia Hott, well known arranger and gardener will be guest speaker and arranger. Now is the time to learn what to raise for lovely material for dried winter bouquets. It takes planning and none better than an expert to give this information.

Abstract Art Discussed

Mrs. Wayne Smith was guest speaker when the Circleville Junior Women's Club met in the home of Mrs. Richard Pettit.

Abstract art was the subject discussed by the speaker. Each member displayed her talent by painting a picture under Mrs. Smith's guidance.

Mrs. Ronald Spence, vice-president, led devotions. Mrs. Robert Chapman reported on highlights of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs convention held last month in Columbus.

The local club decorated the tables for the awards brunch. Mrs. Robert Ransom and Mrs. Charles Stoldt were chairman of that committee. Six members attended the brunch.

The Circleville Club received blue ribbon awards in recognition and appreciation of participation in education, fine arts, public affairs and the junior project, Juvenile Delinquency. The group also received a citation for actively participating in Junior Club Work.

Miss Carolyn Fudge, membership chairman, reported the election of Mrs. Maynard Eaton to membership.

Mrs. Sterling Poling will be installing officer for the June meeting. New members will be initiated and individuals will be given recognition.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Harold Whitmore, Mrs. Charles Stiles and Mrs. Daryl Ransom.

East Liverpool

Educator, 58, Dies

EAST LIVERPOOL, Ohio (AP)—Ralph W. Betts, 58, school superintendent here for almost 12 years, died of a heart attack at his home late Sunday.

He directed a $2,725,000 school building program during his administration, which included construction of two new junior high schools.

He had just come home after a round of golf when he was stricken. He was pronounced dead at City Hospital.

Betts, a native of Nelsonville, was a graduate of Ohio University. He earned a master's degree from Ohio State University.

Services are set tentatively for Wednesday. Survivors include the widow Sally, and two sons Jack Betts of Newark and James Betts of Youngstown.

20 Attend Dorr Class Meeting

Mrs. Carl Burns recently entertained 17 members and three guests of the Dorr Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church. Mrs. Robert Wiley was assisting hostess.

The class presented Mrs. Joel Thornton with a going away gift and a baby present.

Mrs. David Green, president, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. George Trego gave devotions. Members wrote a letter to Mrs. Dan Kimsey, former member of the class.

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

Man Is Parakeet-Pecked!!

DEAR ABBY: My wife has a parakeet and it's driving me nuts. It pecks holes in the plaster, peels paint off the walls and flies over the table when we are eating. I suppose it's my fault because I'm the one who bought it for her. But, Abby, I bought a cage to go with it, and it's never in the cage. My wife says a bird is supposed to be free to fly all over or it will get loony. I've seen plenty of parakeets in cages and they didn't look loony to me. In fact, I think ours is loony. Advice is needed.

END OF ROPE

DEAR END: You're parakeet-pecked! All birds (of the house pet variety) should be in cages. It's unsanitary to let them fly all over the house. If your wife doesn't believe it, refer her to an ornithologist.

DEAR ABBY: My son, as a favor, gives his neighbor a free ride to work every morning. He doesn't want any money, and wouldn't accept any were it offered, but his gripe is this: He is kept waiting outside her house every morning from five to ten minutes, making him late to work. He has given this lady several hints but they don't seem to sink in. Have you any suggestions?

IRATE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes Your son should quit hinting and lay it out line. The free-ride lady should be told that if she is not OUT IN FRONT when her "ride" arrives she will have to get to work some

5-Year House Warranty Offered in Columbus

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A five-year warranty, possibly the first of its scope in the housing industry, has been announced by Ernest G. Fritzsche & Co., one of central Ohio's largest home-building firms.

Fritzsche said all homes completed by him will carry the warranty, issued to the homeowner at time of sale. All structural components — foundation, floors, roof, stairs and the like—which prove defective in workmanship of material during that period will be replaced free he said.

ENLARGED HEART

Q. Is an enlarged heart dangerous? Can a person with an enlarged heart continue active life and drink, smoke and eat whatever he likes?

A. It depends entirely on what is causing the enlarged heart. If it is due to heavy training in athletics or other forms of violent exercise the person involved should be able to get along quite well. If it is of recent origin, a physician should be consulted as to the cause. It should be remembered that alcohol, tobacco and improper eating (especially food high in fat) put an extra load on the heart.

THUMB-SUCKING

Q. My eight-year-old daughter is a "thumb-sucker." Is this due to a nervous condition? How can I break this habit?

A. You are correct in calling thumb-sucking a habit . . . it's seldom anything else. Try stimulating her pride in her fingernails, keep her well manicured and teach her the beauty of hands with well kept nails. If this doesn't work, consult a physician.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook.

Showers covered about one-fourth of the state early today.

The showers are traveling in an easterly direction and are expected to reach all points in Ohio during the course of the day. Additional showers and thundershowers are forecast for tonight.

Rainfall measurements have been quite light, averaging less than one-tenth of an inch.

The showers are moving ahead of a warm and cold front system which appears over the middle Mississippi Valley on the morning weather map. The warm front is expected to cross the state tonight with the cold front following on Tuesday morning.

Dry weather will return to most of Ohio by Tuesday afternoon and will continue Wednesday.

Early today, temperatures ranged from 47 at Youngstown to 56 at Cincinnati. Toledo had 50, Cleveland 51 and Columbus 55.

OHIO FIVE DAY FORECASTS
SOUTHERN & CENTRAL OHIO — Temperatures will average three to six degrees above normal. Normal high 71-76, normal low 49-52. Minor day to day changes. Rainfall will average about one-fourth inch occurring tonight and near end of week.

For take-it-easy cooks: add a package (1½ ounces) of dehydrated onion soup and a cup of water to that beef pot roasts. Saves peeling onions!

GC Features Guest Arranger

Mrs. John Starr, London, was guest and arranger when The Circleville Garden Club held its open-guest meeting in the 4-H and Grange Building at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds.

The Pickaway County Council of Garden Clubs were special guests. Members from the Mt. Pleasant Garden Club Kingston, also attended. Mrs. Donald H. Watt, president, welcomed the guests.

Mrs. Starr made numerous arrangements using choice varieties of the newer listed tulips from her outstanding garden. She is a garden editor, an art major and a teacher in the Columbus Art School.

Her modern design, "Gone Fishing", displayed in a niche and "The Mautte Madonna", composition were of great interest.

An invitation was read for the Rose Breakfast and Bazaar at Prairie Lanes Party Room, June 7, sponsored by the Solagua Garden Club.

Mrs. Hal Dickinson and Mrs. Watt, delegates, reported on the recent all-day spring regional meeting in Grove City.

Mrs. Dickinson arranged the tea table centerpiece of yellow parrot tulips. Mrs. Howard H. Smith was in charge of the refreshment committee and Mrs. Watt presided at the tea table.

The club will sponsor an all-day tour to Glenn Helen on June 6.

Dear Abby:

by Abigail Van Buren

Man Is Parakeet-Pecked!!

DEAR ABBY: My wife has a parakeet and it's driving me nuts. It pecks holes in the plaster, peels paint off the walls and flies over the table when we are eating. I suppose it's my fault because I'm the one who bought it for her. But, Abby, I bought a cage to go with it, and it's never in the cage. My wife says a bird is supposed to be free to fly all over or it will get loony. I've seen plenty of parakeets in cages and they didn't look loony to me. In fact, I think ours is loony. Advice is needed.

END OF ROPE

DEAR END: You're parakeet-pecked! All birds (of the house pet variety) should be in cages. It's unsanitary to let them fly all over the house. If your wife doesn't believe it, refer her to an ornithologist.

DEAR ABBY: My son, as a favor, gives his neighbor a free ride to work every morning. He doesn't want any money, and wouldn't accept any were it offered, but his gripe is this: He is kept waiting outside her house every morning from five to ten minutes, making him late to work. He has given this lady several hints but they don't seem to sink in. Have you any suggestions?

IRATE MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Yes, your son should quit hinting and lay it on line. The free-ride lady should be told that if she is not OUT IN FRONT when her "ride" arrives she will have to get to work some

Oregon Half-Miler Rated Tops in U.S.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Oregon State's Norm Hoffman looks more and more like the best collegiate half-miler in the United States. Hoffman emerged from Saturday's West Coast Relays not only as a runner with outstanding times, but also as one with exceptional endurance and the ability to run a strategic race. He helped the Beavers to a meet record in the 2-mile relay with a half-mile anchor leg in 1 minute, 49.9 seconds only 45 minutes after his 2:55.7 for three-quarters of a mile set up a meet record-equalling victory in the distance medley. He already ranked No. 1 among U.S. collegians with an 880-yard clocking of 1:49.5.

Kiwanis, Saddle and Bridle Prep for Charity Horse Show

Circleville Kiwanis Club members and members of Pickaway Saddle and Bridle Club who worked together last year to stage the first Kiwanis Charity Horse Show are hoping to improve the event with an even better show this year.

Committees are busy working toward that end. The show will be held at Pickaway County Fairgrounds on May 25-26.

Committees which have been set up include Tom Bennett as general chairman.

Sponsors Committee is composed of Robert Wilson, chairman, Ralph Starkey, Robert Temple, Tom Bennett and Dr. F. P. Dunlap.

Mrs. J. E. Groom, show secretary, will be assisted by Mrs. Allen Ankrom, Mrs. Wilbur Warner and Miss Margaret Good. The show program and prize list will be announced by Mrs. William Pike, assisted by William Pike. The Ringmaster is Ralph Starkey and music will be provided by Billy Rhil. Paddock stewards are Allen Ankrom, Dr. F. P. Dunlap, Mike Irish and Tom Downing. Grounds committee has Roy Dunkel as chairman with Wilbur Warner, Charles Kirkpatrick and Keith Wagner on the committee.

Farrier is Clair Peters. Reception committee is Sterling Poling, Ed Wallace, William Ammer, Guy Cline and Dwight Steele. Ring Stewards are Col. T. E. Rickelman, Capt. Hebert Walker, and Kiwanis Key Club members. The awards committee has as members Mrs. Harold Hoffman, Mrs. F. P. Dunlap and Mrs. C. K. Vaughan. In charge of Trophies and ribbons are Mrs. William Pike, Robert Wilson and Mrs. J. E. Groom.

Ticket committee chairman is Virgil Cress. Ralph Starkey is in charge of advertising and Mrs. Sterling Poling, publicity.

Decorations will be taken care of by Mrs. Harold Hoffman. Arbitrators are Dr. F. P. Dunlap, Tom Bennett and Harold Hoffman. The ring secretary is Mrs. Sterling Poling, Electrician is Bernard Kathe and veterinarian is Dr. F. P. Dunlap, police arrangements will be handled by Robert Temple; photography by Beaver's Studio and ambulance service by Maders and Defenbaughs.

Judging the show this year will be Mrs. William Griffith and Mrs. Joseph A. Jeffrey, Jr., in the hunting and jumping division and Fritz Jordan all other classes.

Junior High Thinlies 2nd At Greenfield

The Circleville Junior High School track team finished in a three-way tie for second place Saturday at the Greenfield relays.

Upper Arlington's Jones Junior High School won the event with 51 points. The Tiger cubs, Southeastern and Xenia Central each had 26 points in the 17-team event.

A wet, slow track and cold, windy weather hampered most competitors.

Tom Jenkins scored 16 points for the Tigers, winning the discus with a toss of 103-feet, 8-inches, blazing to a first in the 220-yard dash in 25.3 seconds and placing second in the 440-yard dash with a time of 56.9, just one-tenth of a second off the winning effort.

NEW SHOOL records were set by Jenkins in both the discus and the 440.

The relay team composed of Danny Gibbs, Larry Payne, Bill Pritchard and Tim Stonerock won the 880 relay in 1:47.6 and placed second in the 440 relay with a time of 5.29.

There were 34 boys entered in each event, with points going to the first five finishers.

The Roundtown Junior high thinlies placed sixth in the 440-yard dash, the high jump, the discus, the shot, the broad jump, the 880-yard run and the shuttle hurdle relay.

The Greenfield event was the last meet of the year for the junior high. Their overall record was 24 wins, six losses and three ties.

John Adler and Jim Lint were the coaches.

Michigan State's first swimming pool was only 17 by 35 feet. Built in 1902 it was surrounded by eight classic white Grecian columns.

Circleville Golfers Sucessfully Defend SCO Championship

By STEVE JONES
The Circleville High School golf team successfully defended its South Central Ohio League crown Saturday at the Pickaway Country Club.

The Tiger linksters finished the 18-hole match with a team score of 324. Runnerup Pleasant View was 13 strokes back with a 337.

Oregon Half-Miler Rated Tops in U.S.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Oregon State's Norm Hoffman looks more and more like the best collegiate half-miler in the United States. Rhodes is being honored for his work with youngsters. Other recipients include the Rev. John Braun, Port Clinton Lutheran pastor and chairman of Ottawa County's Committee on Aging.

In third spot was Washington C. H. with a 344 while Hillsboro and Miami Trace, fielding golf teams for the first time, had 423 and 420 respectively. One Wilmington High School golfer did not turn in his score and the team was automatically disqualified.

Taking medal honors was Pleasant View's Carl Newman, a junior, with 76. Bruce Helwag and Phil Alkire, Washington C. H., tied in the runnerup spot with 78s.

THE CHILLY weather Saturday was not conducive to their best golf, according to those who participated.

Circleville held a slim five-stroke margin after the first nine. It was not until Bruce Helwag came in with a 39 on the back nine that the Roundtowners went on top.

Bob Fuhrman's second round of 37 clinched the championship for Circleville. On the first nine he had a 46.

Bivens carded a 40-41 for an 81 total. Dickinson went the first nine in 40 strokes and finished with a 42 for a 82 total while Helwag stroked identical 39s for his 78. Fuhrman's total was 83.

Circleville and Pleasant View finished first and second in the league meet last year at the Washington C. H. Country Club.

The next important event for the local golfers comes May 24 and 25 when they enter the State tournament on the Scarlet course at Ohio State University.

THEIR third place finish behind Arlington and Westerville in the district entitled them to the state berth.

In match play this year they have lost only to Logan High School.

Bivens, Dickinson and Fuhrman are all seniors. Helwag is a junior.

MEDALIST — Carl Newman, a junior from Pleasant View High School, won medalist honors in the SCO League golf meet Saturday with a 76. Bruce Helwag, Circleville and Phil Alkire, Washington C. H., were runners-up for individual honors with 78s.

New Glowing Predictions Heard on Business Scene

NEW YORK (AP)—The business picture is sparkling with new glowing predictions.

Businessmen, economists and government officials joined in expressing the opinion that the economy is moving up again after having been on a plateau.

Heavy production of automobiles and steel were major factors.

The Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York said favorable business reports covering a broad range of activities have followed one another in rapid succession during recent weeks.

"They have confirmed that over-all activity is now in a phase of accelerated advance and also have encouraged projection of improvement into the future," the bank said. "Business sentiment, helped by government's nonintervention in steel pricing, has a new heartiness."

Bungling Bums Become Alert, Humble Giants

Three Straight Wins
Chalked over Frisco
By Alston's Crew

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It may have been the vote of confidence club president Walter O'Malley gave to manager Walter Alston last week.

Or it may have been the mere sight of the hated Giants who heaped so much humiliation upon them last October.

Whatever it was, it worked wonders on the Los Angeles Dodgers.

From a dispirited, bungling crew of second divisioners, the Dodgers became an aroused team over the weekend, capped Sunday by their third straight triumph over the Giants.

Sunday's 6-5 victory was an even sweeter triumph than Friday night's 2-1 squeaker or even Saturday night's 8-0 shutout in which Sandy Koufax pitched his majestic no-hitter.

The Dodgers found themselves on the short end of a 5-2 score when they came to bat in the eighth inning.

Jack Fisher, seeking his fourth straight victory, hadn't let a runner beyond first base since the second inning. But Fisher didn't last the inning as the Dodgers erupted for four runs to sweep the three-game series and edge into fourth place, only two games behind the leading Giants.

St. Louis advanced to within a half game of the top, despite a doubleheader split with Pittsburgh. The Cardinals won the opener 2-1 in 11 innings and the Pirates took the second 4-3.

Houston's young Colts nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 10 innings for a sweep of the four-game series. Philadelphia swept both ends of a doubleheader from Milwaukee, 4-3 in 11 innings and 6-5 in 12. The New York Mets gained a split with the Cincinnati Reds, winning the second game 13-12 after the Reds had taken the opener 3-0.

In the American League, New York shut out Baltimore 2-0; Cleveland routed Detroit 9-3 and Kansas City defeated Minnesota 2-1. Rain washed out the second A's-Twins game.

Boston and Washington split a doubleheader as did Chicago and Los Angeles. The Red Sox took the second game 4-1 after the Senators had won the opener 3-2 in 14 innings. The White Sox thrashed the Angels 14-2 in the first game but Los Angeles won the second 7-6 in 12 innings.

Ken Boyer and Ted Savage delivered the key hits in the Cards-Pirates split. Boyer's single in the 11th drove in the winning run for St. Louis in the opener. Savage's home run snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth of the nightcap for the Pirates.

Frank Torre's two-out single scored Johnny Callison with the winning run in the 11th inning of the Phils' opener. A double error by Brave pitcher Lew Burdette led to Philadelphia's winning run in the 12th inning of the nightcap. Choo Choo Coleman' run-scoring single snapped a 12-12 tie in the eighth for the Mets' nightcap victory. Vada Pinson drove in five Cincinnati runs with a home run, double and two singles.

Bob Aspromonte's homer in the bottom of the 10th snapped a 1-1 tie for Houston against the Cubs.

Purkey Feels Better After First Victory

CHICAGO (AP)—"It was a big one for me to win. I was constantly in the struggle buggy," said Bob Purkey after winning his first game of the season Sunday in New York.

Purkey, 23.5 last season, hurt his shoulder during spring training and did not get to pitch until last Tuesday. He gave up seven hits Sunday as the sixth-place Cincinnati Reds beat the Mets 3-0. New York blew two big leads before defeating the Reds in the nightcap 13-12.

In the second game, the Mets led 5-0 after three innings and 6-2 after four. But the Reds tied it up in the top of the fifth with four runs. Then the New Yorkers bounced right back with five runs in their half of the fifth to make it 11-6.

The Reds again overtook the Mets with a six-run sixth inning to make it 12-11. But the Mets blanked Cincinnati from then on and iced the game with two runs in their half of the eighth.

The Reds were idle today. Joe Nuxhall (2-1) is the Reds' choice for Tuesday's series - opener against the Chicago Cubs.

Boros Shuns Favorites To Win Tourney

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Julius Boros ignored the "Big Three" dynasty Sunday and waltzed, by a four-shot margin, to the championship of the $60,000 Colonial national invitation golf tournament.

The big Mid Pins, N.C., veteran shuttled down the home stretch with a 1-over-par 71 to post a 279 total and douse a tournament victory drought that stretched back to 1960. The former national open champion picked up his last title check here three years ago.

Boros eared $12,000 for his victory march, threatened by a gallant challenge from little Gary Player blazing down the home stretch.

The Ntne South African, trailing by eight shots after 54 holes, raced through the front nine in 32 strokes, dipped four under par at the 14th and to within two strokes of the leader.

A bogey at the 15th coupled with a Boros birdie at the 14th erased the threat. Both parred on in, which enabled Player to snatch the second prize of $6,000 from favorite Jack Nicklaus, who had a par 70, a 284 total and third-place $3,500.

Arnold Palmer never threatened to successfully defend his title here and wound up 20 strokes off the pace at 299.

Marshal Dillon Interrupted By Sandy Koufax 'Gunsmoke'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—It was Saturday night and Marshal Mat Dillon, in his characteristically quiet but resolute manner, was confronting the latest threat to law and order in trouble-prone Dodge City.

Suddenly, in mid-plot, Southern California's viewers of "Gun-smoke" were snatched from the 19th Century midwest. The picture on the television screen faded and a voice, unmistakably from a later century, said: "Here is a KNT news bulletin."

The voice proceeded to tell the marshal's fans that the San Francisco Giants had been cut off at Chavez Ravine. In fact Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers, had just pitched a no-hitter against them.

Birdie Puts Big 'If' on Prize Pitcher

CLEVELAND (AP)—The way it looks to Manager Birdie Tebbets, Sam McDowell has the makings of a great pitcher—"If he can get the ball over."

The 20-year-old southpaw, who signed for a $75,000 bonus when he got out of high school in 1960, went nine innings at Detroit Sunday and pitched the Indians to a 9-3 victory over the Tigers. He struck out eight and gave up six hits—including a home run to Gus Triandos in the ninth inning—as the Tribe would up a 3-game road trip with seven victories and six defeats.

The statistic that interested Tebbets most, however, was the number of men McDowell walked.

Sudden Sam gave up six bases on balls. The Tigers managed to get men on base in all but three innings, and the first Detroit run scored on a wild pitch in the third. However, McDowell pitched himself out of trouble on other occasions, and the infield backed him up with three double plays.

"If he can get the ball over, he's going to be tough to beat," said Tebbets. "He's especially got to get that fast ball over. That's the pitch that can make him a great pitcher."

"Put that fast ball with his changeup, which is as good as you can get, and he's got to win—provided he doesn't walk too many."

Sandy got his fourth victory in five decisions and lowers his earned-run average to 1.15. It was the first no-hitter in the majors this season.

"To pitch a perfect game would have been something really great," Koufax said. "I'm sorry I had to walk those two guys. But it's still my biggest thrill."

Bigger, he said than his first no-hitter against the New York Mets last June 30. And bigger than his two 18-strikeout performances, one against the Giants in 1959 and one against the Chicago Cubs last season.

Retired Jockey Eddei Arcaro won the triple crown of racing with Whirlaway in 1941 and with Citation in 1948. The triple crown consists of the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont.

Bungling Bums Become Alert, Humble Giants

Three Straight Wins
Chalked over Frisco
By Alston's Crew

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It may have been the vote of confidence club president Walter O'Malley gave to manager Walter Alston last week.

Or it may have been the mere sight of the hated Giants who heaped so much humiliation upon them last October.

Whatever it was, it worked wonders on the Los Angeles Dodgers.

From a dispirited, bungling crew of second divisioners, the Dodgers became an aroused team over the weekend, capped Sunday by their third straight triumph over the Giants.

Sunday's 6-5 victory was an even sweeter triumph than Friday night's 2-1 squeaker or even Saturday night's 8-0 shutout in which Sandy Koufax pitched his majestic no-hitter.

The Dodgers found themselves on the short end of a 5-2 score when they came to bat in the eighth inning.

Jack Fisher, seeking his fourth straight victory, hadn't let a runner beyond first base since the second inning. But Fisher didn't last the inning as the Dodgers erupted for four runs to sweep the three-game series and edge into fourth place, only two games behind the leading Giants.

St. Louis advanced to within a half game of the top, despite a doubleheader split with Pittsburgh. The Cardinals won the opener 2-1 in 11 innings and the Pirates took the second 4-3.

Houston's young Colts nipped the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 10 innings for a sweep of the four-game series. Philadelphia swept both ends of a doubleheader from Milwaukee, 4-3 in 11 innings and 6-5 in 12. The New York Mets gained a split with the Cincinnati Reds, winning the second game 13-12 after the Reds had taken the opener 3-0.

In the American League, New York shut out Baltimore 2-0; Cleveland routed Detroit 9-3 and Kansas City defeated Minnesota 2-1. Rain washed out the second A's-Twins game.

Boston and Washington split a doubleheader as did Chicago and Los Angeles. The Red Sox took the second game 4-1 after the Senators had won the opener 3-2 in 14 innings. The White Sox thrashed the Angels 14-2 in the first game but Los Angeles won the second 7-6 in 12 innings.

Ken Boyer and Ted Savage delivered the key hits in the Cardinals-Pirates split. Boyer's single in the 11th drove in the winning run for St. Louis in the opener. Savage's home run snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth of the nightcap for the Pirates.

Frank Torre's two-out single scored Johnny Callison with the winning run in the 11th inning of the Phils' opener. A double error by Brave pitcher Lew Burdette led to Philadelphia's winning run in the 12th inning of the nightcap.

Choo Choo Coleman's run-scoring single snapped a 12-12 tie in the eighth for the Mets' nightcap victory. Vada Pinson drove in five Cincinnati runs with a home run, double and two singles.

Bob Aspromonte's homer in the bottom of the 10th snapped a 1-1 tie for Houston against the Cubs.

Purkey Feels Better After First Victory

CHICAGO (AP)—"It was a big one for me to win. I was constantly in the struggle bugg," said Bob Purkey after winning his first game of the season Sunday in New York.

Purkey, 23-5 last season, hurt his shoulder during spring training and did not get to pitch until last Tuesday. He gave up seven hits Sunday as the sixth-place Cincinnati Reds beat the Mets 3-0. New York blew two big leads before defeating the Reds in the nightcap 13-12.

In the second game, the Mets led 5-0 after three innings and 6-2 after four. But the Reds tied it up in the top of the fifth with four runs. Then the New Yorkers bounced right back with five runs in their half of the fifth to make it 11-6.

The Reds again overtook the Mets with a six-run sixth inning to make it 12-11. But the Mets blanked Cincinnati from then on and led the game with two runs in their half of the eighth.

The Reds were idle today. Joe Nuxhall (2-1) is the Reds' choice for Tuesday's series - opener against the Chicago Cubs.

"Here is a KNT news bulletin."

The voice proceeded to tell the marshal's fans that the San Francisco Giants had been cut off at Chavez Ravine. In fact Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers, had just pitched a no-hitter against them.

To be sure, Koufax drew other salutes. At the stadium, a crowd of more than 55,000 gave him a standing ovation. Dodger President Walter O'Malley, not exactly the biggest spender this side of the Defense Department, gave Sandy a $500 raise.

And Giant Manager Alvin Dark confessed: "Koufax is the only pitcher I ever played against that I couldn't get a line drive off. I got a few hits off him but never a line drive. His fast ball just overpowers the hitter."

Saturday night the 27-year-old left hander struck out only four but pitched a perfect game until the eighth inning. He retired batters in order before walking catcher Ed Bailey. Bailey was wiped out on a double play and the only other Giant to reach base was pinch hitter Willie McCovey, who walked in the ninth.

Sandy got his fourth victory in five decisions and lowers his earned-run average to 1.15. It was the first no-hitter in the majors this season.

"To pitch a perfect game would have been something really great," Koufax said. "I'm sorry I had to walk those two guys. But it's still my biggest thrill."

Lions 'Lights To Save Sight' Campaign Will Open Tuesday

Cub Scouts Plan Program For Sunday

The District Cub Scout Field Day, which will be held at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds beginning 2 p. m. Sunday, is the first in a series of special activities being planned as a summertime program.

Sunday's event will involve Cub packs from Ashville, Commercial Point, Darby, New Holland, Saltcreek, Washington Twp. and Williamsport, with Circleville packs serving as hosts.

It is expected by September that the 300 Cubs and their families in the county will have had the opportunity to participate in two or more of the special activities.

Cub Scout leaders are endeavoring to strengthen the Cub Scouting program in present packs and promote the interest for additional units in the fall.

A THREE-RING circus is the first program planned for Sunday. Three different events will be taking place at the same time throughout the afternoon. The events are a bicycle derby, kite flying contest and feats of skill. Cubmasters will be the event directors and fathers of scouts will assist.

Gerald W. Ayers, district chairman, said today that unlike the Boy Scouts, Cubs have not had district events which they could attend. A program such as this could make Pickaway District the most active in the Central Ohio Council. However, a scouting boy does not make this or any other scouting program a success, but a scouting family will, he added.

Firemen Check Sign

Circleville Firemen were called to Haley's Cafe, W. Main St., at 3:55 p. m. yesterday to check a short circuit in a display sign. Damage was estimated at $6.

"Buy a Light To Save a Sight" again will be the motto for the club's yearly effort to protect and improve the eyes of area youth. The drive will continue through Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Proceeds from the bulbs will be directed toward this worthwhile program. All local Lions members are scheduled to take part and assist in the campaign.

Harry Styers is chairman of this year's project. He has outlined plans for selling 1,000 bags of GE bulbs.

LIONS serving on Styers' committee are Ronald Nau, Waldon Reichelderfer and Ora Hockman.

Proceeds from sale of the bulbs are devoted to a Lions program of testing the eyes of all students in city and county schools, public and parochial. Everett Funk is chairman of this testing program.

Students in grades 4, 6, 8, 10 and 12 annually are offered eye checks. According to Funk, this sets up a program of checking individual eyes every two years.

The testing program is conducted in conjunction with the Circleville and Pickaway County Health Boards. A Lions committee assists Funk with his end of the project.

Last year 1,395 students were checked under the program. Of this number, 35 were referred to optometrists for additional testing.

The program also has been designed, again with the aid of mon-

Lewis Huber Buys Registered Ayrshire

Lewis Huber, Circleville, recently made an initial purchase of one registered Ayrshire female from Wayne Hines & Family, Ashville, Ohio, according to the Ayrshire Breeders' Association, Secretary, David Gibson, Jr., of Brandon, Vermont.

The transaction was recorded in the national office of the Association, where complete registry records on all purebred Ayrshire dairy cattle in the United States have been maintained since 1875.

Gay Setting Features Prom at Logan Elm

"After the ball is over..." it was breakfast in the high school cafeteria for Logan Elm junior and seniors and their dates on Friday night and early Saturday morning.

The evening began with the traditional junior-senior banquet in a setting of "Wonderland by Night", followed by the annual BPO Elks Prom at the Fairgrounds Coliseum and concluding with the breakfast.

For the banquet held in the cafeteria with overhead and table decorations of blue and silver, the walls were decorated with a New York skyline and the courtyard was decorated to represent Central Park.

The program, with Drexel Poling serving as toastmaster, included a welcome by Glenn Reeser, junior class president. A response was given by Terry Anderson, senior class president. The senior prophecy was read by Lana Fischer and the senior will by Tom Huffines.

MUSIC was provided by "The Roof Garden Singers", a trio composed of Barbara Duffeson, Susan Laveck and Drexel Poling. Their accompanist was Lois Wilson.

The program concluded with remarks by John Henn, school principal. Also introduced were the class sponsors, Mrs. Robert Mills and Gobel Branham. Parents of the juniors worked in shifts to prepare the dinner and the breakfast.

For a friendly "love-to-relax-in" kitchen, see your nearest Packaged Gas Kitchen Dealer

If your kitchen is more than five years old, probably there's much about it you wish were more convenient, more conducive to "relaxation breaks" with family or friends. If you are about to build a new home, the answer is obvious. If you are not, you can still enjoy the finest in kitchen magic by remodeling.

Either way you'll do better with the expert aid of a Packaged GAS Kitchen dealer. He will help you plan a fresh new arrangement, with smart, roomy cabinets and counters affording that extra storage space and convenient counter area you need.

And of course, at the heart of any modern kitchen is a GAS built-in range. A GAS Range bakes better because the oven circulates heat. It broils better because the fast flame heat sears rich juices in meat. And GAS gives you every automatic cooking convenience, too—including the Burner-with-a-Brain that makes every cooking utensil automatic!

Ask an authorized Packaged Gas Kitchen dealer to show you a modernized multi-cabinet plan for your home. And remember—for the new kitchen you'll love to cook in ... the range you'll love to cook on is GAS!

Lions 'Lights To Save Sight' Campaign Will Open Tuesday

Cub Scouts Plan Program For Sunday

The District Cub Scout Field Day, which will be held at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds beginning 2 p. m. Sunday, is the first in a series of special activities being planned as a summertime program.

Sunday's event will involve Cub packs from Ashville, Commercial Point, Darby, New Holland, Saltcreek, Washington Twp. and Williamsport, with Circleville packs serving as hosts.

It is expected by September that the 300 Cubs and their families in the county will have had the opportunity to participate in two or more of the special activities.

Cub Scout leaders are endeavoring to strengthen the Cub Scouting program in present packs and promote the interest for additional units in the fall.

A THREE-RING circus is the first program planned for Sunday. Three different events will be taking place at the same time throughout the afternoon. The events are a bicycle derby, kite flying contest and feats of skill. Cubmasters will be the event directors and fathers of scouts will assist.

Gerald W. Ayers, district chairman, said today that unlike the Boy Scouts, Cubs have not had district events which they could attend. A program such as this could make Pickaway District the most active in the Central Ohio Council. However, a scouting boy does not make this or any other scouting program a success, but a scouting family will, he added.

The program also has been designed, again with the aid of money received from the light bulb sales, to aid the purchase of glasses for students and adults who cannot afford them.

ANOTHER use for bulb sales funds is realized by contributions to eye research projects conducted at Ohio State University, Western Reserve and the University of Cincinnati. This is a joint project for all Ohio Lions Clubs.

Still other benefits derived are contributions to "Pilot Dog" programs for the blind. Blind persons in this area who desire a "seeing-eye" dog may contact local Lions members. The club will initiate necessary procedures and line up the program that follows.
